

Donor Privacy Policy

United Community Center of Westchester, Inc. ("UCCW") is committed to protecting the privacy and confidentiality of personal information provided by donors, supporters, and the general public. UCCW complies with applicable federal and New York State laws governing charitable organizations and data privacy.

Collection of Information

UCCW collects personal information voluntarily provided by donors, including but not limited to name, mailing address, email address, telephone number, and donation details. Information may be collected through donations, event participation, online forms, correspondence, or other interactions with UCCW.

Use of Information

Personal information is used solely for purposes consistent with UCCW's charitable mission, including processing donations, issuing acknowledgments and tax receipts, communicating with donors regarding programs and services, and complying with legal and reporting requirements.

Sharing of Information

UCCW does not sell, rent, trade, or share donor personal information with third parties for solicitation, marketing, or fundraising purposes. Information may be disclosed only when required by law or to service providers assisting UCCW who are required to maintain confidentiality.

Confidentiality and Security

UCCW maintains reasonable administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to protect donor information. Access is limited to authorized personnel with a legitimate organizational need.

Donor Choice and Communications

Donors may request to review or correct their personal information, limit or discontinue communications, or remain anonymous in public acknowledgments.

Data Retention

UCCW retains donor information only as long as necessary to fulfill operational, legal, and reporting requirements.

Policy Updates

This policy may be updated at any time and changes will be posted on UCCW's website.
